FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Athlete Advisory Council and Club Advisory Council for Ring Sports elected during the Official WAKO Team USA Kickboxing Training Camp

CHICAGO – World Association of Kickboxing Organizations (WAKO) Team USA Kickboxing held elections for the Athlete Advisory Council (AAC) and the Club Advisory Council (CAC) on August 10, 2019, in Huntley, Illinois.

Among the three Ring Sports athletes elected by their peers were Amanda Ginski, Meryl Swidler, and Jimmy Whitaker. They will represent all WAKO USA Ring Sport athletes in an Athletes Council consisting of Tatami and Ring Sport athletes addressing any concerns and wishes of the athletes with the WAKO Board. One athlete from Tatami and one from Ring Sport will be appointed to sit on the WAKO USA Board.

At the same time, three club Presidents from Ring Sport were elected to represent the club owners in a council consisting of Ring and Tatami club owners to address any of their ideas with the WAKO USA Board. Among the elected club owners were Mark Greubel, Chris Cichon, and Ben Cutinello. The nominees had to have their members compete during a WAKO National or International tournament within the last three (3) years. One Club representative from Tatami and one from Ring Sport will be appointed to sit on the WAKO USA Board.

“This election is a further step to strengthen WAKO USA. Having athlete and club/school representation on the Board of Directors ensures that everyone’s interests are represented.”, said President Rob Zbilski in an interview with state media.
